SEA CADETS WRITE FROM 'GAY PAREE'

LAC LA BICHE — Rev. Fr. McGrane has sailed the canals of England in Exeter II and crossed the English Channel. Obviously, this has been no trouble to the ardent skipper and his local cadet crew. Aren't they swimming the channel every day?

Lions Will Build New Curling Rink

LAC LA BICHE—The Lac la Biche Lions Club have decided to build a curling rink for this growing town of over 1,000 population and large rural area that hitherto has had no curling rink. During the years gone by there has been considerable discussion from time to time on why the town should have a curling rink, but for the first time there are definite prospects of having one for this winter's play.

Construction is to get underway at once so that the sheets will be ready as soon as the weather is cold enough. The Lions plan several social functions this fall to raise funds and already Hayward's Lumber Company have offered to supply, without charge, a set of blueprints that would cost the club considerable if they had to buy them.

Location for the rink will likely be in the area east of the present baseball diamond. The Lions hope to add further to this area as time goes on to make it a real Recreation Centre.

But this winter, anyway, we can expect to see the ladies carrying big brooms that weren't meant for housework, and all will be heaving those rocks in the "roarin' game."

On Monday, Sept. 17, Mr. and Mrs. Strembinski, of the Recreation Centre, left by car for Scarron to attend the funeral of Mr. Strembinski's brother-in-law.

Ideal weather has enabled farmers to start harvesting operations, and there have been no reports of frost.

Work has been done on some of the back lanes in town, which makes a difference.

Appointed To Staff At Peace River

LAC LA BICHE—Leo Menard of Lac la Biche, is closing his Northland Studios business and going to the Peace River district, where he has been appointed to the staff of a Seismograph crew in the important job of searching for more oil. His many friends and associates wish him the best of luck in his new work.

TERRY KENNEDY, right, of Georgetown, Ont., had 4,000 volts pass through him when he touched a wire in the town's hydro-electric station. He was burned on the face, hands and neck, but was otherwise unharmed by tremendous bolt.

While the popular padre spent a short holiday in Brittany, his cadets saw the sights of Paris. Cadet Jackie Wolstenholme wrote in part to his parents as follows:

"After sailing the Exeter across the English Channel, we arrived at Dieppe on Wednesday night. We took the train to Paris and are now staying at Rue Soeur Rosalie. We find it hard to get around here with no English speaking people. There is one good thing—there is no rationing in France like there is in England. We saw the Eiffel Tower, the Notre Dame Arch of Triumph and lots of other interesting places. We went to the top of the Eiffel tower Sunday. The money situation is good—45 francs for a package of chewing gum. While Father McGrane is in Brittany we rely on Romeo LeBeuf as our interpreter. French cigarettes taste like cigars, so that should suit Father. I miss mother's home cooking. By the time we leave Paris I hope to be able to speak French. We'll soon be back to Liverpool and then home to Canada."

While in England the cadets saw Barbara Anne Scott's Ice Show on the star's personal invitation and she gave them each her autograph. They visited the Tower of London, say the "Bloody Tower", Westminster Abbey, the Crown Jewels and Madame Tussaud's Waxworks. They sailed the canals of England and visited important cities, such as Manchester, where they saw the famous Bellevue gardens.

They will return to Canada on the same ship bearing Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to Canada. They will come home in the company of Royalty, which is a rare experience never before enjoyed by any other Canadian boys.

The proud people of Lac la Biche are asking themselves: "What will Father McGrane think of next?"

Royal Visit Still On Despite King's Illness

OTTAWA — (BUP) — Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent said the government was "relieved and pleased" to learn that the scheduled visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh would not be cancelled.

Shortly after word that the King would undergo an operation and that the Royal couple would fly to Quebec City rather than cross the Atlantic by ship, the prime minister issued the following statement:

"The Canadian government and I am sure, all the Canadian people will be relieved and pleased to be assured that the condition of the King's health is considered not so serious as to cause Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to abandon their plans for their visit to Canada.

"All Canadians will hope that the treatment His Majesty is to undergo at this time will have brought about such beneficial results that Princess Elizabeth

Education Methods

A national research committee says that Canada's schools should train students in basic skills and sound work habits—rather than job training.

The committee — reporting on its four-year study at the annual convention of the Canadian Education Association at Saskatoon—said the three R's are being brushed aside by the growing emphasis on teaching highly specialized skills.

The committee says that after surveying more than 12,000 high school graduates and 14,000 who did not complete secondary education, it believes they lack the ability to express themselves well.

The educators say that the three R's should be taught in such a way that they'll be useful on the job and during every-day activities.

Whatever policy our schools follow, it should be one best designed to prepare our youngsters for useful lines.

Horrors Of Death Penalty

Those who oppose capital punishment can often use convincing statistics to prove that persons committing murder are not deterred, at the time, by fear of reprisal death. They either figure they can "get away with it" (as it is believed many murderers do), or commit the crime in a moment of senseless passion. Many murderers who escape the death penalty, often turn out to be good citizens.

An example of this is Jim Williams, convicted murderer, at Florida State Penitentiary, in 1926. A unique occurrence stopped his electrocution after he had been strapped in the chair, the electrodes had been adjusted and the black hood placed over his head.

When the moment came to send the 25-year-old Negro to his death, both the warden and the sheriff refused to pull the switch, each claiming it was the duty of the other. As neither official would consent to do it after a heated argument of twenty minutes, Williams was unstrapped and returned to his cell. For having been tortured in this manner, his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, and shortly, he was sent to work on a state farm.

In 1934, Williams saved the lives of a little girl and her mother who were about to be gored by an enraged bull in an adjacent field and was rewarded with a full pardon.

Feel In Your Pocket First!

Who hasn't felt the annoyance of having sent clothing to the cleaners with money, or other pocket treasures in the pocket all forgotten? Such persons will sympathize with the old lady in Cleveland, Ohio, who is reported to have given away a bundle of old clothes—not knowing it contained her savings of $4,200. She had rejected the usual mattress as piggy-bank and had hidden her savings in a vest pocket not in use. Her husband, ignorant of the tragedy of his act, put the vest in the bundle of old clothes.

He should have felt in the pockets first!

His Example Might Well Be Copied

(FROM HAMILTON NEWS)

When King George and Queen Elizabeth returned to Buckingham Palace after their tour of Canada in 1939, they were asked which city they enjoyed visiting most. Without hesitation, both replied: "Montreal."

That was because the colorful mayor of that city, Camillienne Houde, who later was to come into disfavor because of his attitude towards the war then in the offing, didn't give two hoots for red tape and arranged everything in defiance of protocol.

A famous host and a born entertainer, Houde personally and jovially conducted Their Majesties on a tour of Montreal and dispensed with formalities, leaving the retinue of the Royal visitors aghast. But the King and Queen enjoyed their visit and got a real kick out of their host.

While it would not be advisable for every mayor of a city to be visited to take the informal attitude of Mayor Houde, it is the belief of Canadians that Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, while expecting the respect due them, would be as well satisfied if they could, for a while, get away from the protocol that hedges them while at home.

Iranian Crisis Spurs Tar Sands Project

By T. B. W.

(Editorial Note: Half way round the world, trouble brews in the rich Iranian oil fields. A great world power—Britain—is forced out of this lucrative oil area and looks to the undeveloped but fabulously rich oil deposits of the Alberta Tar Sands).

The promise of greater things to come is shaping up for Edmonton and the province of Alberta in what may be described as glowing colors. It is evident from the results of drilling at the California Standard's 11-11 well, in the Acheson area, approximately 7 miles west of Edmonton, that another major discovery of oil has been made. The well burst into life one Sunday recently in a great column of gas and oil 200 feet high. This discovery is of immediate and great importance to the Edmonton oil field.

While this development was taking place in the orthodox field of oil recovery, an important meeting of oil experts and scientists was held at the Alberta University, in what was described as a symposium on Alberta's vast oil sands deposits in the McMurray area. One hundred delegates representing leading oil and mining companies, research councils, universities and industrial laboratories interested in the problems of extracting the oil from the sand and exploiting the riches of the petroleum resources were present.

It is not generally realized, despite the publicity given it, that these oil riches constitute the biggest reserve of oil anywhere in the world. They are perhaps Alberta's most valuable natural resource. Important developments will doubtless follow the findings of this great symposium.

The delegates received the fullest enlightenment in their discussions with the technical director of the gathering, Sydney M. Blair, on his knowledge of the tar sands and of his tested methods of extracting the oil from the sands economically.

With the world situation what it is, owing to the misguided policy of the Iranian government in its quarrel with the British government over oil, the importance of the Alberta deposits is vastly increased. If the scientists and industrialists who attended the symposium can be convinced that the oil in the McMurray tar sands can be extracted in paying volume the future holds unimaginable progress and industrial development and wealth for Alberta.

The announced objective of making this province the debt free province of the Dominion seems to be within reach of achievement.

War Base in Space

"When there are two moons in the sky" has for ages been used as a synonym for the absolutely improbable. It has at times been garnished by the proposition that one of the moons might consist of green cheese, and except for the color this isn't altogether impossible, according to some German scientists.

It seems that both Russia and the Western powers are racing towards a project of establishing another moon—a very small one—that will circle the earth just as does the now visible moon, and be held in space by a fine balance of gravity between the earth, sun and moon and centrifugal force. It will be kept at a distance of about 300 miles from the earth and could be used as a base from which atomic war heads could be launched. If the Russians own the base, the bombs will come to us; if we own it we presume the bombs will go to Russia.

The idea has not yet escaped the realm of fantasy, because with our limited knowledge of science we can foresee numerous obstacles. How would such a sphere overcome the earth's gravity, and get away from the "pull in" power of the earth that brings numerous heavenly bodies, visible to us as "shooting stars" to our planet daily. If sufficient powers were developed to launch our artificial moon into space, what precision would be required to stop it at the right distance away! We assume men would easily be sent to man the base once it was out there, by small rocket ships, but could they really live in an environment without atmosphere or gravitation?

The green cheese? Well, they'll probably build the artificial moon out of more substantial materials than cheese, cheese is likely to be on the ration list of those manning artificial moon No. 1.

HIS HOMEWORK

GOD'S LAWS

Dear Sir—Regarding T. W. Pue's article, "Honesty in the Pulpit." If someone wrote an article without consulting you nor in accordance with facts as you knew them, and signed your name in order to give it the stamp of authority, would you be the liar, or would it be the writer? I'd say the writer.

The same situation occurs regarding the Bible. Dozens of men wrote, according to their beliefs, prejudices, and imaginings, and to give their human ideas authority, claimed it was all from God.

God's unchangeable indisputable Laws control and govern all of us, impartially. The sooner we learn these everlasting laws and harmonize our lives with them, the greater our progress, and the less our suffering and distress. The Golden Rule is one of the most important spiritual laws to live by. It was recognized and taught as far back as 500 B.C.

LIFE OF RILEY?

Dear Sir—Talk about socialism—the farmers have got it already. They start work late in the morning and quit early in the afternoon.

Every time a duck flies by they run out of the house to shoot it. And the government's been trying for years to figure out a way to make them pay income tax.

LABOR CONFAB

Dear Sir—Two national labor conventions have just been held and it seems to me that nothing really constructive has come out of the meetings.

First off, they blasted the government for not putting on price controls. Then the Trades and Labor Congress decided to disassociate itself from the Canadian Congress of Labor. The only good thing that came about was that the unions half heartedly decided to throw out some of the Commies in their organizations.

GRAIN AND ORE CARRIERS

Dear Sir—A news report states that Britain is building a new fleet of ore carriers, to service British steel industries; while Canada the wealthy just keeps on talking about Lake grain carriers to serve the Prairie wheat farmers.

Is it possible that the present plugged Prairie wheat storage was "engineered" so as to stamper the West into going overboard for the much ballyhooed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway project?

Coarse Grain Law Stands Despite Alberta Repeal

Alberta's action in repealing an amendment of its coarse grains marketing legislation does not alter Dominion-Provincial statutes providing for the marketing of such grain through only the Canadian Wheat Board.

That was the opinion today of President Roy C. Marler of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, who said he could not "understand the wisdom" of the Alberta government in announcing its repeal move.

Agriculture Minister David Ure disclosed Saturday the province has repealed the amendment which had been aimed at preventing farmers from delivering coarse grains to feed, flour and seed mills.

Ure said the validity of the amendment had been questioned on the grounds that such mills come under only federal control. He said the province's right to pass its original Coarse Grain Act, in support of a federal amendment to the Canadian Wheat Board Act, was under consideration.

Ure said that "court action may be asked to determine whether this authority rests with the provincial or federal government."

Dope In Cigarette Turns Out Perfume

YORKTON, Sask. — (BUP) — Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers at Yorkton, Saskatchewan revealed today that a 14-year-old girl has confessed she had "doped" a cigarette her 12-year-old brother smoked in the hope of making him quit smoking.

The RCMP refused to release the girl's name, but said they had investigated the case when Yorkton was put on its ear by "sinister" reports the girl was peddling marijuana reefers to her teen-aged friends.

One officer said the girl's mother told them: "The kids are always leading cigarettes with pepper or mustard or something as a prank, but I thought nothing of it."

The mother said the girl had read about narcotic addicts in a pulp romance magazine.

However, the RCMP discovered the girl had only put into her brother's cigarette a strong shot of perfume. They have dropped the case after warning the 12-year-old boy he'd better quit smoking.

NINE ALBERTA DISTRICTS CONDUCT SPECIAL COYOTE CONTROL COURSES

Nine districts in the province have conducted schools in Alberta's coyote control program, according to William Lobay, Supervisor of Crop Protection Service.

These are the Municipal Districts of Ponoka, Bonnyville, Cochrane, Wetaskiwin, Bright, Camrose, Stony Plain and Leduc, and local Improvement District No 76 (Breton area). The Municipal Districts of Pincher Creek, Kneehill, Lac Ste. Anne and Red Deer also have applied for the establishment of the program in their districts.

The schools familiarize Pest Control Officers with cyanide "coyote-getters" and the necessary precautions taken when setting up a gun. These include the posting of warning signs in the area and notifying neighbors and local schools of the danger. The "coyote-getters," cyanide cartridges, scents, bait and other materials are supplied free of cost by the Department of Agriculture.

Summer Resort May Follow North Engineering Project

The first part of the Heart River Diversion Project—a long-term engineering plan to control the unruly rivers of the High Prairie district—was completed recently with the installation of an 1,800-foot long dam on the Heart River, four miles east of the eastern tip of Lake Winagami.

The dam designed to divert the troublesome backwash of the West Prairie River, forces the Heart's upstream flood water through a natural creek and a reservoir into a diversion canal which is a mile and a half long. The river waters then flow through Lake Winagami into a two-mile outlet canal, located at the south end of the lake to carry the diverted water into a creek. The water then passes four miles through the creek, finally returning to the Heart River.

Fish, which once shunned the lake, are now following a clear path from Lesser Slave Lake to Winagami.

Winagami now has provided an ample feed ground for ducks which have gathered in hundreds, attracted by miles of shallow water and slough grass. The duck population in the smaller sloughs in the vicinity of the lake has also increased.

Ducks Unlimited (Canada) have contributed $20,000 to the Heart River project as part of a co-operative program with the Province of Alberta.

The dam has water-power possibilities since there is a 75-foot drop between the level of the Heart River and Lake Winagami.

Game Department Catches Up To Air Age; Hunting From Aircraft Now Taboo Here

Alberta's game department has caught up with the fast-moving air age.

The department announced new regulations to prevent the use of aircraft for locating, spotting, searching for or worrying game.

Hunters flying to game areas are now required to take out a departmental permit, and a maximum penalty for breaking the new law is $200 or three months imprisonment.

The regulations were patterned along those passed a year ago in British Columbia, where game authorities became alarmed at the rising influx of American flying hunters. B.C. authorities took action when they discovered the Department of Transport was unable to keep track of all the planes entering B.C. game country.

An Alberta authority said local hunters also have been turning more and more to the use of planes and this type of hunting was not considered sportsmanlike.

From 1939 to 1949 Canada's gross national production increased from $5,598 million to $16,382 million; in the period labor income increased from $2,583 million to $7,800 million and corporate profits after taxes increased from $506 million to $1,171 million.

Lakes Named After Military Heroes

The Alberta Geographical Board announced the naming of Wood Lake after Regimental Sergeant Major James Deans Wood, the first Canadian soldier to die in Korea.

Wood Lake is two and a quarter miles south of Grande Prairie. RSM Wood, who won the Distinguished Conduct Medal in Italy during World War II, died in Korea last January 18 in a mine demonstration accident.

Born in Ranfurly, Alberta, he was the son of Mrs. Mary N. L. Wood, of Calgary.

The board also announced the naming of Colquhoun Creek, between Wembley and Beaverlodge, in honor of Flt. Lt. I. L. Colquhoun, of Edmonton, who was presumed dead while serving in the RCAF overseas in the last war.

ALBERTA was described as the "Texas of the North" last week in a seven-page spread in Time Magazine. This picture, of a wild well in the Acheson field, west of Edmonton that went on a rampage two weeks ago, was one of the many photographs illustrating the feature. Article said that "for Alberta, the brimming best is yet to come."

School Holiday For Royal Visit

October 11, the day Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip visit Calgary, may be declared a school holiday in Southern Alberta.

A provincial government spokesman said the question is now under consideration and no final decision has been made.

A school holiday will be unnecessary in the northern half since the Royal couple will be in Edmonton on Saturday, October 20, when children are holidaying from school anyway.

DEFENCE COSTS RISE

CALGARY, Alta. — (BUP) — Federal Health Minister Paul Martin has warned Canadians that the inconvenience they are suffering because of heavy defence expenditures will increase. Martin said in Calgary that defence expenditures of five billion dollars in the next three years represent a tremendous effort for the country. He added that it is a price that must be paid to maintain the freedom the Canadian people prefer.

DAIRY FARMING has taken on a new trend, as anyone can see by the picture above. Farmers are now using "loafing pens" and "milking parlors." Cows stay in the loafing pen all year, are fed on hay stored in silos. Increases in milk production have been recorded and experts forecast an ultimate benefit to Mrs. Consumer who gets her milk in bottles.

Uranium Found on Road Near West Texas Town

DALHART, Tex., Sept. 24.—(BUP)—FBI and Atomic Energy Commission officials slapped a security blackout today on the discovery of pure, processed uranium near a main highway leading east from the New Mexico atom bomb proving grounds.

An Atomic Energy Commission official confirmed that a 33-pound cylinder found by three boys in this Texas Panhandle town was uranium. No one would comment, however, about a 64-pound chunk reported found later in a scrap heap here. Both chunks appeared to be alike, however.

Authorities were trying to solve the mystery of how the rare metal used in making Atomic Bombs got to Dalhart, in West Texas near the New Mexico border but more than a hundred miles from the A-Bomb proving grounds.

The two cake-shaped cylinders were under tight guard while scientists examined them to determine their exact composition and possible value in Atom Bomb manufacture.

The three boys, Don Monroe, 12; Jodell Golden, 13, and Walton Fowler, 12, found the 33-pound cylinder more than three months ago. They played with it until their elders made them turn it over to authorities because it gave off dangerous sparks when handled roughly. It was taken to the University of New Mexico Sept. 8, where University and Atomic Energy Commission officials determined it was uranium.

A second, and larger, piece was reported taken from a scrap heap Friday by FBI agents investigating the first discovery. E. M. McKee-gan, who lives nearby, said he noticed the cake shaped 64-pound

AVIATION MEET ENDS

JASPER, Alta. — Delegates to the annual convention of the International North West Aviation Council boarded their 50 light aircraft and returned home after winding up their business here Thursday.

The council set up a permanent committee to make recommendations on simplifying aircraft border crossing regulations between the United States and Canada, and passed a motion calling for more attention to agriculture by aviation. Examples cited were crop spraying and sowing of seed from the air

Soldier Committed On Murder Charge

Pte. Frederick J. Sabattis, of Kingsclear, New Brunswick, was committed for trial a second time on a charge of murdering another soldier at the Wainwright military camp.

His first trial produced a surprise when it disclosed he was "just under 18 years old" and a juvenile when he allegedly shot Pte. H. B. McEachron of Woodstock, New Brunswick, during a quarrel last June 30.

The trial judge then quashed the original hearing and ordered that Sabattis appear before a juvenile court judge in line with the process of justice.

When Sabattis appeared last week, the juvenile judge waived jurisdiction and the way was cleared for the second preliminary. Sabattis was expected to appear for trial in Edmonton next month.

Additions To Local Creamery

LAC LA BICHE—The local creamery, under the ownership of Louis Badry, has added new equipment to take care of increasing business. A new boiler room of stucco will be completed about October 1, and a new boiler installed. Mrs. Romeo Coutney, formerly local editor of the Lac la Biche Herald, is now working three days a week at the creamery assisting Mrs. Badry in the slab, but thought it was just a piece of junk.

District Workers In South Harvest

LAC LA BICHE—With all of Alberta busy harvesting a bumper crop, men of this district are employed in various parts of the province. A number of pulpwood workers are spending September on harvest work in southern parts of the province, resulting in considerably less pulpwood being cut at this time of year. But the pulpwood business has been good and resulted in thousands of extra dollars of purchasing power for district workers.

As only dried, killed, timber is shipped as pulpwood the actual cutting will be further removed from the Lac la Biche town. Pulp shipments are sent by railroad to pulp mills in Wisconsin.

The Chinese language and its dialects are used by nearly 500 million people. The English language by a little more than 270 million.

Chemical Plant Adds New Production Lines

Harold Blancke, president of Canadian Cellulose Company Ltd., disclosed yesterday that the $55,000,000 chemical plant now under construction at Edmonton would produce staple fibres and filament yarns when it is completed.

These two new additions to the long line of chemical products to be manufactured at the plant will be finished materials ready for use in the textile mills of Canada.

At the present time Canadian textile mills have to draw most of their supplies of yarn and fibre from the company's American plant in Texas.

"Plans for the Edmonton plant," Mr. Blancke said, "envisage the development of Canada as a major supplier of cellulose acetate on the world market."

The plant, which will consume 175,000 gallons of Alberta's petroleum gases per day, is expected to be in operation within a year and a half.

Besides, the cellulose acetate, staple fibre and filament yarn, the chemical factory will also produce formaldehyde, to supply the plywood glue industry of British Columbia: pentaerythritol, for use in alkyd resins used in air drying and baked finishes of automobiles, and acetone and acetic acid which are used in the cellulose acetate operation.

Last Rites Held For Rags-to-Riches Toronto Publisher

BARRIE, Ont. — (BUP) — Multi-millionaire William H. Wright, founder of the Toronto Globe and Mail, was buried here Saturday, where he died Thursday.

His was a true rags to riches story.

He had been a butcher boy, a house painter and a soldier before coming to Canada in 1907. For four years after he came to Canada he painted houses to earn enough money for grubstakes in the Kirkland Lake district of Northern Ontario.

He struck it rich and eventually he became vice-president of the Lake Shore Mines of the Wright-Hargreaves mine in the Kirkland Lake district. Later he branched into the newspaper business by founding the Globe and Mail. However, at his death, he was not the main shareholder in that paper.

Wright also is remembered as the only millionaire private serving in the front lines during World War I.

Search Underway For Best Drivers In Alta.

A search is on in Alberta for the best drivers in the Army, Navy and Air Force, who will drive the Royal tour cars when Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh visit Calgary and Edmonton.

The Army announced that four drivers from each service will be chosen for six Royal tour cars.

Following preliminary selections from units in Calgary, Edmonton and Wainwright, drivers will be gathered at Currie Barracks in Calgary, where they will be given training for the work.

The training will cover courtesies, deportment, security, and historical background; mechanics of the cars' special fittings; and driving and route familiarization.

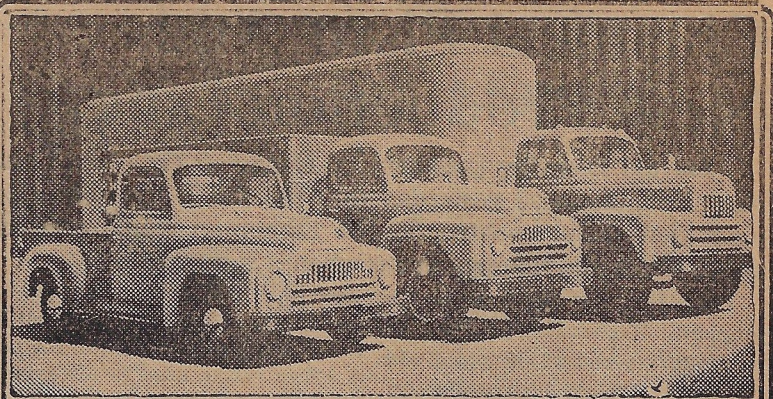

Surprise Package For Royal Couple

A surprise package will be presented to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip when they visit Edmonton October 20 on their Canadian tour.

A gift will be presented jointly by the Alberta government and the City of Edmonton. A spokesman for the Royal tour committee said the nature of the present will be kept a strict secret.

"It's no fun receiving a gift if you know what it is," the spokesman remarked.

Berserk Junk Dealer Kills Youth, Wounds 4 Others

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Quebec—(BUP)—Quebec provincial police have captured Antonio Houle, who is alleged to have killed one teen-ager and seriously injured four others here Saturday.

A heavily armed police posse apprehended the 45-year old junk dealer early Sunday morning. During the night, the posse had formed a cordon around a lonely Shawinigan Falls shack, where the recluse was reported hiding with two huge dogs.

No further details of the capture have been made available so far but Police Headquarters reports that officers escorted Houle to the Provincial Police Bureau at Three Rivers, Quebec, 40 miles from here. The junk man wasn't injured during his capture.

The police posse tracked Houle after he attacked four teen-age youths and a 15-year-old girl with a shotgun. Police said they believed he was angered by the five, who were teasing him. He fired a shotgun blast at them, killing one youth and seriously injuring two others and their girl companion. The three were reported in critical condition in hospital last night. The fifth teen-ager is reported in fair condition.

Ford Agency Garage Changes Hands

LAC LA BICHE — Last week the local Ford-Monarch agency garage which, as the Keay-Blue Motors had been sold earlier in the year to Howarth and Sons, was bought by Messrs. Art Bowman and Bernard Carnie, both of whom came from Grande Prairie. The change in ownership became effective on September 17.

Some members of the Howarth Motors' staff have moved away, including Mr. Howarth and his son, Margaret Bell, who has returned to Jasper, Alberta, and Leo Menard, mechanic, who has gone to Peace River on seismograph survey work.

Staff members remaining are W. J. "Jack" Chester, who will continue as office manager, and is also in charge of the parts department, and J. Heyduk, mechanic. Former manager, V. E. Crosbie, has not announced his future plans.

Both new owners are fully experienced and qualified mechanics who will concentrate on making the repair shop local headquarters for Ford and Monarch garage work.

They have chosen the name "Universal Motors", and invite all old and new friends to call in and get acquainted with the new management.
